

FIRE EVERGREEN PRESS MIKE!!!

Our Move

Ex-Student Sues Everyone Under the Sun

(by SACRED news services)

On Tuesday May 3, Lee R. Unterseher, former Evergreen student, filed suit in Thurston County Superior Court against The Evergreen State College, Joe Olander, the board of trustees, Gail Martin, Dr. Roberts Billings, Richard Jones, Ken Jacob and Kathleen O'Shaunessy, asking for an amount of damages which will be determined at trial. As part of the suit, Unterseher seeks to prevent the college from engaging in a cover-up by removing or destroying any non-academic disciplinary records on students.

"These records will prove

Four men resign S&A

Accused of racism-sexism

Files stolen

by Sharon Franklin

Kathy Ybarra arrived at the S & A office last Thursday morning to find four letters of resignation on her desk. Coordinator James Martin, Assistant Coordinators Pete Stadler and Todd Lundgren, and Research Assistant Steve Miller would no longer be working for the S & A Board. But these four were not alone in their absence from the S & A office. The research files from the S & A Research and Development Team were missing as well.

Behind them, the four left a group of people shaken and angry. At the emotional April 29th meeting, the women of S & A told a story of the pain and frustration they had experienced during the past year under James Martin's leadership.

These resignations occurred two weeks after the discovery of the missing memo at the April 15th meeting. On March 17th, Kathy Ybarra had sent a memo to board members alerting them to James Martin's failure to submit the S & A's budget to the Board of Directors and suggesting that they meet with him when he returned from vacation. The memo was removed from the board members' boxes before they could receive them.

At the April 22 Board meeting, James acknowledged that the student who had removed the files was working on his behalf and would not reveal the identity of the student. He stated that he beyond doubt that Evergreen has systematically violated the most basic civil rights of students, and engaged in a pattern of human rights violations and psychiatric abuse," said Unterseher, who was an Evergreen student from September 1982 until May, 1985. "I want to make sure that this can never happen to anyone ever again."

cont. on page 12

College records show that Unterseher was summoned to the office of the campus Adjudicator, a faculty member in Psychology, who alleged that he had received "complaints of your socially disruptive behavior," and was taking disciplinary action. However, the Adjudicator would not specify what these complaints were, or who made them. Unterseher was never informed that he had a right to a hearing, to a jury of 16 members (including four members of the Evergreen State College Counselling Center in order to have his "problem" treated. "The Adjudicator implied that I was being watched by some group on campus that he was part of, but he wouldn't say why, what the charges were, or who 'they' were," said Unterseher. "At the time, I dismissed the whole thing as too paranoid to be real. Now, in retrospect, it's clear that he meant the Network. Basically, my 'problem' was that I tended to question authority."

At the Counselling Center,

Shirtless Evergreener Handcuffed & Fined $250

A woman's body is declared indecent

MAY DAY: May first. Spring in full blossom. Bright red tulips. Heady lavender lilacs. Heavy gray stormy clouds.

BELTANE. We gather one by one. Women and men in a circle in the middle of campus, hard edge cement buildings encompass us.

We lie the basket of multi-colored ribbons and flowers around the hole dug for standing the may pole. Joining hands we begin to dance and sing:

"We are the flow and we are the egg, we are the weavers and we are the web."

"I'm just asking a question", the woman answered.

Defensively, the women guard responds, "I refuse to talk to you until you put your shirt back on." When the woman refuses, the guard chains her hands behind her back with handcuffs.

Still nude, security finds her some one else's sweater, puts it over her head like a strait jacket, and takes her away. The group, angry, frustrated and appaled, focuses their energy toward their anger. Now, we have yet another reason for enacting this ancient rite.

We each choose a ribbon and tie it to an old bicycle tire turned may pole wreath with flowers and tree boughs. Binding the ribbon, we declare what we are dancing for. Justice. Peace. Freedom. The chant fades. We Evergreen Council), to a hearing with a "Mediator of Legal Issues," or that he had any other legal rights. Instead, the records indicate that he was required to seek treatment from "a mental health professional" as a condition of continued enrollment. The Adjudicator, Richard Jones, referred him to the Evergreen State College Counselling Center in order to have his "problem" treated. "The Adjudicator implied that I was being watched by some group on campus that he was part of, but he wouldn't say why, what the charges were, or who 'they' were," said Unterseher. "At the time, I dismissed the whole thing as too paranoid to be real. Now, in retrospect, it's clear that he meant the Network. Basically, my 'problem' was that I tended to question authority."

At the Counselling Center, Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort of psychological problem existed, but her opinion was never confirmed by a psychiatrist (a

psychiatrist has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher developed side-effects to the drugs, so that he was almost paralyzed, and had difficulty walking. Instead of discontinuing the shots, the physician has a medical degree.) Nevertheless, the College began a series of injections with Prolixin, a powerful antipsychotic drug. The injections were performed in Evergreen's Seminar Building, with cooperation from the College Physician.

Unterseher was seen by a counsellor with a PhD. in Psychology — the same person whom the Adjudicator had told him to visit. Apparently, she agreed with the Network consensus that some sort

The Evergreen Free-Press has been awarded $1950 by Evergreen Services and Activities Board (S&A) and is committed to publishing regularly at least through this quarter, unreliable sources disclosed today.

At the April 22 meeting of the S and A board, Free-Press spokesperson announced their intent to make the Press financially independent of the school, through fundraising and advertising. The $1950 will be used to get the Press off the ground, but there are no plans to ask for further allocations.

The Press also announced its intention to publish at least monthly throughout the summer, to keep students up on decisions at Evergreen that may affect them. The Press is also looking for students interested in getting independent study contracts to staff the paper during the 88-89 academic year.

"Basically we really are interested in being the forum where Evergreeners can express their opinion, bitch about things, and generally let people know what's on their minds," explained Goodman, the managing editor of the Free Press. "Stuff submitted to the paper has basically been printed automatically, although maybe we should screen the poetry collectively due the megalomaniacal bad college poetry out there. Decisions of what goes into the paper are decided collectively by whoever's around when we're laying out the paper that week, unlike the CPJ where it's one editor who's got all the say into that."

"Also, I want to personally thank the individual who sent the recipe on how to have a chemically induced religious experience using morning glory seeds. However, I personally feel that in the name of public safety we should have waited until we had... uh... personally tested the recipe before we presented it to the public. But ohhh-well."

Of course drugs are disgusting and loathsome, but if you have any more of these recipes, that's CAB 14 folks, right in the basement next to the bicycle shop.

a Experim production, 1988

Special Thanks
from Portland, Barbara Hinchcliffe, Richard Ferguson, whose contributions, many, many others without YEP, Thanks.

"Basically we really are interested in being the forum where Evergreeners can express their opinion, bitch about things, and generally let people know what's on their minds," explained Goodman, the managing editor of the Free Press. "Stuff submitted to the paper has basically been printed automatically, although maybe we should screen the poetry collectively due the megalomaniacal bad college poetry out there. Decisions of what goes into the paper are decided collectively by whoever's around when we're laying out the paper that week, unlike the CPJ where it's one editor who's got all the say into that."

"Also, I want to personally thank the individual who sent the recipe on how to have a chemically induced religious experience using morning glory seeds. However, I personally feel that in the name of public safety we should have waited until we had... uh... personally tested the recipe before we presented it to the public. But ohhh-well."

Of course drugs are disgusting and loathsome, but if you have any more of these recipes, that's CAB 14 folks, right in the basement next to the bicycle shop.

FEEDBACK

Dear Editor,

Congratulations on producing an interesting and thought-provoking newspaper. I enjoyed Emily Force's "Kangaroo" and "Scumbags" articles and I especially appreciate her recognition that the so-called "scumbags" are real people who, like myself, came to Evergreen for some of the same reasons students do. Further, many of us are trying to make a positive difference in our environment both on and off campus. It is often said that the rhetoric of Evergreen does not match reality. This rhetoric is regurgitated by administrators, faculty, and students. For example, some students who oppose policy changes argue that nothing should happen until "the students" have been consulted and that failure to do so violates the collaborative nature of Evergreen. Although the Board and administration have solicited student involvement through various DTGs, students are either apathetic or unable to decide who among them best represents their interests. While it would be ideal for insufficient student input.

-A Real Person

- 1) WRITE AN ARTICLE, AN EDITORIAL, A LETTER, OR A POEM, OR TAKE A PHOTO.
- 2) DECIDE TO SUBMIT IT TO THE STUDENTS' PAPER, THE EVERGREEN FREE-PRESS.
- 3) PUT YOUR NUMBER ON THE SUBMISSION NUMBER AND PHONE NUMBER ON THE SUBMISSION.
- 4) HOLDING THE SUBMISSION, GO TO THE CAB BUILDING.
- 5) FIND THE ELEVATOR. 6) TAKE THE ELEVATOR WITH A "B" ON IT.
- 7) GET OUT OF THE ELEVATOR. 8) FOLLOW THE SIGNS TO THE FREE-PRESS OFFICE, TAKING CARE NOT TO GET LOST IN THE BIKE SHOP OR THE WILDERNESS CENTER.
- 9) CAREFULLY PLACE YOUR SUBMISSION IN THE ENVELOPE LABELED "SUBMISSIONS". 10) RELAX, GO ABOUT YOUR DAILY LIFE, AND EXPECT TO SEE YOUR SUBMISSION IN THE NEXT ISSUE OF THE EVERGREEN FREE-PRESS!

On Governance: (found buried in the CPJ):
"I would appreciate very much in working the details of this, that there would be some mechanism that would disallow participation by members of the Evergreen Underworld."

-Gail Martin, V.P. for Student Affairs on Violators of the Social Contract.

Opinions

WHAT WENT WRONG: ONE PERSON'S ANALYSIS

S&A

What follows is an attempt to summarize recent events in the S&A. I realize as I write this that there is a lot of information I don't have and that this can, therefore, in no way be considered a definitive statement of any kind.

It is, simply, one person's analysis, for what it's worth. If it serves no other purpose, putting my thoughts on paper may at least save me the effort of explaining these things verbally too many more times to people who want and deserve to know what's been going on.

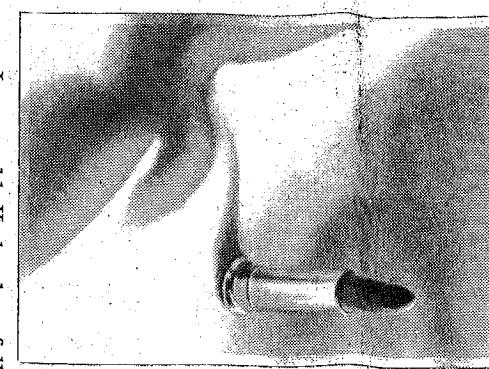

Central to my analysis of what went wrong is something I heard a few weeks ago from James and more recently from Kathy. It is that, from the beginning of his term as S&A Board Coordinator, James adopted as a primary tactic in his strategy for pursuing student autonomy and empowerment the fostering of antagonism between the S&A Board and the S&A Administration. He believed that it was necessary for students to mistrust administrators in order for them, the students, to do what is necessary to attain some autonomy, some power over student money.

James told Kathy last fall that this was his strategy. She agreed to go along with it in the interest of student empowerment and so as not to contribute to divisiveness among students.

When I first heard the idea, I went along with it, too. I tried to view Kathy and Cheryl with more suspicion than I otherwise would have. I note that Kathy recruited me to the Board and I already had some working relationship with her and some social time with her and Cheryl and I like them both.

Anyway, the establishment of mistrust may well have been necessary in order to gain consensus on the Board that the reorganization of the S&A Administration was a good idea. The reorganization plan was and is to redefine job descriptions and lines of accountability in those positions which are fully funded by S&A money such that people holding these positions will be accountable to students rather than administration.

So what went wrong was that James and the three men working most closely with him got carried away with their mistrust and it developed into overt antagonism and hostility. They/he lost sight of the fact that fermenting mistrust was a tactic, not the end itself. They found themselves unable to move forward with the work, not (solely) because of obstruction explaining these things verbally too many more times to people who want and deserve to know what's been going on.

Central to my analysis of what went wrong is something I heard a few weeks ago from James and more recently from Kathy. It is that, from the beginning of his term as S&A Board Coordinator, James adopted as a primary tactic in his strategy for pursuing student autonomy and empowerment the fostering of antagonism between the S&A Board and the S&A Administration. He believed that it was necessary for students to mistrust administrators in order for them, the students, to do what is necessary to attain some autonomy, some power over student money.

James told Kathy last fall that this was his strategy. She agreed to go along with it in the interest of student empowerment and so as not to contribute to divisiveness among students.

When I first heard the idea, I went along with it, too. I tried to view Kathy and Cheryl with more suspicion than I otherwise would have. I note that Kathy recruited me to the Board and I already had some working relationship with her and some social time with her and Cheryl and I like them both.

Anyway, the establishment of mistrust may well have been necessary in order to gain consensus on the Board that the reorganization of the S&A Administration was a good idea. The reorganization plan was and is to redefine job descriptions and lines of accountability in those positions which are fully funded by S&A money such that people holding these positions will be accountable to students rather than administration.

So what went wrong was that James and the three men working most closely with him got carried away with their mistrust and it developed into overt antagonism and hostility. They/he lost sight of the fact that fermenting mistrust was a tactic, not the end itself. They found themselves unable to move forward with the work, not (solely) because of obstruction from the S&A Administration, but more because of their own anger. They built up such a degree of anger and hate towards Cheryl and, to some extent Kathy, that they believed that any response needed to be taken into consideration when dealing with their part was justified.

Sexism and racism no longer needed to be taken into consideration when dealing with Cheryl and Kathy. Basic interpersonal respect was lost.

James portrayed the situation to me and to others as one in which he was being constantly persecuted. He raged against the "therapy state", against indoctrination into a system in which individuals are not empowered but merely enabled to function within and perpetuate the system. He had some very good points. I'd have liked an open discussion of these concepts because I think they are among the ideas on the cutting edge of social change in this society.

But James and his friends ceased being able to see the people in the people they were dealing with. He became obsessed with symbolic details of his own empowerment: coordinated office furniture, a private Board Room. He had many legitimate concerns about what was and what wasn't being accomplished for and by students, but it was all rolled together into one big anger. I tried to ask questions and sort it out but it seemed that to James it was all the same, all an insurmountable problem.

In the end, he advocated a blatantly sexist act on the part of his friends and co-workers: the placing of a sexist and degrading picture in the frame where Cheryl's picture was on the S&A office wall. Rather than getting the point, recognizing the oppressive nature of the incident, and getting back to work (with the assistance and support of a majority of Board members) they resigned.

It's always easy to look back after a crisis and have good ideas about what should have happened. After Spring Break, we should all have gotten to work on the tasks at hand: allocations, S&A reorganization, student governance. James and the guys should have minimized the S&A budget memo incident and focused their energies on the work at hand. The S&A women's caucus was inevitable. Had they welcomed rather than resisted our efforts, the events of last week would have been very different. I note that James did, at least at first, welcome the women's caucus, though not without triflation. He responded to our initial concerns and the result was, I believe, the re-enfranchisement of the women Board members into the work at hand and an opening of the Board's agenda to our concerns. Had further sexist actions not occurred, I think we would all be hard at work together now.

April 30, 1988

entirely free of the most rudimentary guarantees of legal due process, such as those provided by State law. The U.S. Constitution, or the ancient traditions of common law, they began to engage in it openly.

It is hard to believe that such a thing could have ever been allowed to exist at a state college which is widely regarded as one of the most progressive and liberal in the nation. Unfortunately, documentary proof exists which clearly shows that this clandestine group of 10-20 full-time State employees took advantage of vagueness in Evergreen's loosely-structured system of justice, as codified in an otherwise well-intentioned document, "The Social Contract," and assumed authority grossly in excess of state law. Under the color of law, over one hundred persons were banned from the campus of the Evergreen state college under so-called "criminal trespass citations," despite the fact that the college had not given itself the authority to issue any such orders, as required by the Higher Education Administrative Procedures Act (RCW 28B.19). At least forty persons were forced to undergo highly invasive, personal and probing sessions at the TESC Counselling Center, as a condition of continued enrollment. Estimates vary, but many of these cases involved the administration of injections or tablets containing psychiatric drugs, without any form of psychiatric supervision. Other cases involved psychiatric commitment, or unsuccessful attempts to get students committed. In short,

But what was done was done. The picture incident was a boot in the face to all of the women involved. The denial of its wrongness was unbearable. The men who defended this action had to leave, to resign. But this loss is all of ours.

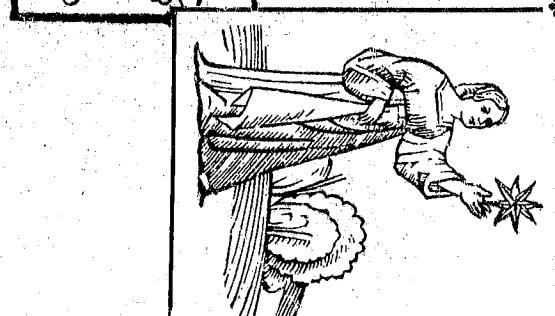

Beth Hartmann

WHAT IS
'THE NETWORK'?
STUDENT ALLIANCE
FOR CONSTITUTIONAL RIGHTS AND EQUAL DETERMINATION

For over 13 years, a secret organization of state employees existed on the campus of the Evergreen State College. In a zealous attempt to identify and single-out students who they regarded as "psycho-logically disturbed," this organization used student-informers to report on the private and personal affairs of individuals, and met on a regular basis to report the results to a central group of admin-istrators who met every week (during most of the thirteen year period) in the Campus Police conference room, located in the Seminar Building. As the activities of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's formal system of justice, as described in the Washington Administrative Code, fell into partial disarray and then total atrophy. By 1984, virtually none of the required safeguards remained. As these were dissolved, an illegal but parallel "judicial" track - an unofficial system of Network members were allowed to continue unchecked, Evergreen's

May Day

Continued from page 1

*****
Freeze frame. In the middle of an ancient sacred ritual reclaimed from beneath the shroud of institutionalized Christianity, a woman is handcuffed, bound by another woman and arrested for "indecent" exposure. She is later fined $250 dollars and given a court date. This image is a metaphor for the oppression of women, the repression of non-patriarchal religions, the compartmentalization of men into product producers and the neutering of spirit from culture.

It happens to women every day. Our rights are violated. Our bodies raped. Our rites our denied to us. Our hands handcuffed.

Every day a subversive war is enacted against women and what our bodies have come to symbolize. Women represent in this culture nature and the unknown. For this we are chained, mutilated, abused, beaten. Our bodies are exploited for the selling of cars, booze, clothes, etc. etc. Our voices our blatantly stifled, or worse, insidiously invalidated. Our rights are negated by people who are wielding authority for others. It happens to women every day. Every moment that this war is perpetuated, our brothers become further removed from knowing the mystery of their own immanence. That a women can be arrested for "indecent exposure" directly implies that women are indecent, dirty and revolting. Womens bodies are bound and sold. Women do not own thier own bodies, our powers of production and reproduction are commodities for the use of patriarchal purposes by a select few. It is not only women's bodies but men's bodies as well that are co-opted into paper pushers or production line workers.

That another women is put in the position of having to arrest another for this "crime" represents the use of a women's body to enact the authority of patriarchal laws. When challenged, she becomes defensive because she has no tangible power of her own, only that which is bestowed upon her by her badge and gun, both tools of oppression and dominance.

We do not own our own bodies. From the time we are young children we internalize the belief that we are separate from the earth, from other beings, from the mysteries of life, and more dangerously we are separated within ourselves. We become unwitting tools continuing the perpetuation of dominance and beliefs that foster only the genocide of all our relations.

Immanence surges in cells of all living beings. It is the energy that animates life. It is that which existed before form. It is that which we came from and that to which we must return. Immanence is that which is attained at the end of desire.

Yes, we have internalized the structures of the patriarchal dominance/power-over paradigm. But this not a death penalty.

Indeed, it is a challenge to embrace the immanence that is within ourselves. To transform the patriarchy we cannot fight dominance with dominance. We must remove the battle lines within ourselves and between each other. We can defuse dominance with immanence. Thus, the battle will not ensue.

"Whenever ye have need of anything
Once a month, and when the moon is full Ye shall assemble in some deserted place
Or in a forest all together join
To adore the potent spirit of your Queen
My mother, great Diana.
She who fain would learn all sorcery
Yet has not won its deepest secrets
Them my mother will teach her
In truth all things as yet unknown.
And ye shall be freed from slavery
And so ye shall be free in everything
And as a sign that ye are truly free
Ye shall be naked in your rites Both men and women also This shall last until the last of your oppressors shall be dead."

-The Charge of Aadia, Goddess of Witches Traditional Invocation, origins unknown.

Completing the Circle of Change

by Kirsten Ellen Johnsen

I am a witch. The root of the word witch is 'wic' which means to bend, to shape. This is what I am. I am a woman shaping my reality; working magic to bend probabilities. I change; and as I change the world around me changes. It is an enormous responsibility.

The Witches' Rede, the only law of the Craft, states: "An' ye harm no one, do as ye will." The principles of magic hold that what one creates, one receives threefold upon oneself. We create our own reality and we are always responsible for what we create.

Magic in the Wiccan tradition is a pathway revealing such creation. We are all creating magic; constantly each moment, as we decide what our lives are and aren't made of. To use this power consciously and towards the fulfillment of love and healing is what being a witch means to me. To be conscious of the power I have in creation is a tremendous joy.

I am a witch. I live the craft of the shaper. I know that magic is not relegated to the lonely realm of spirit in disconnection with mundane life. Magic is not something I do only on Full Moons to be forgotten about later. Magic is my life, it courses through my body. I know that it is only when I physically make things change in my life that the circle of magic is completed. Magic takes courage.

It takes power and courage to face oneself, to recognize what needs changing and have the ability to create it.

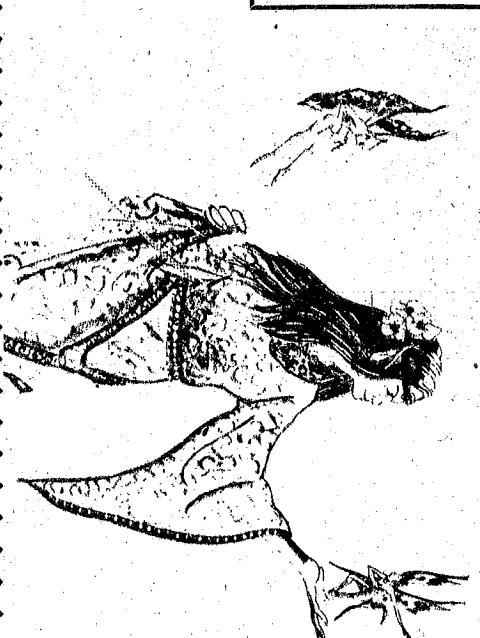

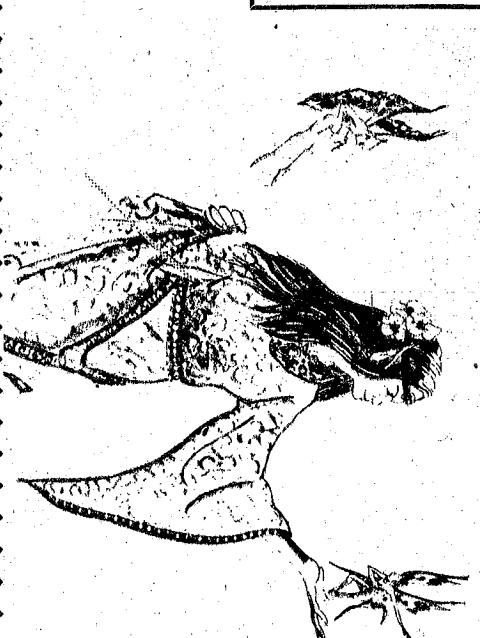

Ruth Dean was arrested for bared breasts, and fined $250.00. She stood up for her rites as a woman to bare skin in the Beltane breeze alongside her sistren and brethren. She did not hesitate to go to the full lengths of magic in creating change towards freedom. And as she was led away in handcuffs she gave us a great gift. Her magic, her action towards change, fed us and burned within us all. The magic we wove in the ritual dance of the Maypole became so much more powerful, so much more rich with intention, fueled with the strength of her motion towards change. Each dancer left the Maypole incredibly charged with creativity, and each can tell her/his own story of the pathway this creativity unfolded in her/his life. But where do we take it; this power to change? We always ground our power into the Earth for her healing. Yet what are the next steps to healing the Earth, the next human, livable steps?

This ritual taught us a lesson about the power of freedom. We are all free; free to choose our change. Fertile in our choice. Powerful in our abilities to conceive, to nurture, to give birth. It is time to move with these changes, to work the magic to all its lengths, to carry it out into each-of our lives. When we listen to ourselves, when we listen deeply we know what to do.

*If it was Mayfest a woman bared her breast they placed her under arrest They'd never arrest a man's bare breast
they call it a chest Does this make sense*

Does it fit sexism bullshit

By Tamara

How many

Our survival depends on our spiritual bond with

People are you?

And Now, the Antiterrorist

ds on our Earth... "

Map is not healthy for children and other living things

Jews Against Racism

by Jonathan Daniel

New Jewish Agenda
The New Jewish Agenda bases its progressive convictions on "tikun olam," a concept found in Jewish literature which means "the just reordering of society." Politically conscientious Jews founded the religious and political group in 1980, and the organization now has over 5,000 members.

NJA's statement of purpose is, in part, "Society can be changed and human cooperation can be achieved. Working for social progress not only reflects Jewish ideals, but enhances Jewish security. NJA's national platform upholds progressive Jewish values and affirms that the goals of peace and justice are attainable."

NJA addresses issues of disarmament, apartheid, racism, and Middle East peace. NJA's stance on the issues concerning the

"In the US it takes no courage to tell the truth, merely honesty. Journalists cannot plead fear of state violence."

Middle East is atypical of American Jewish organizations. Their platform calls for national self-determination for Palestinians, having Israel give back territories occupied since 1967 (including the West Bank and the Gaza Strip). Other concerns include the traditional call for international recognition of the Jewish people's right to determination in the State of Israel.

For more info about New Jewish Agenda, or a similar organization in Washington D.C., called Washington Area Jews for an Israeli-Palestinian Peace, contact Steve Silverberg at (202)244-8926. If you can't get through try calling the Bethesda Coop for any info. (Due to lack of time and too much procrastination I did not do this myself until after press-time.)

Beer Update

"When someone says, 'We're going to boycott your product,' we say, 'Christ, what's new? Who set it?'"

- Company Chairman William Coors 1977

Despite the settlement reached between the AFL-CIO and Coors last summer, boycotts against Coors continue. In addition to Coors' anti-labor background, groups are boycotting Coors for alleged discrimination, support for environmentally damaging policies, and Joseph Coors' funding of right-wing organizations and the anti-Nicaragua contras.

Only two days after the settlement was reached, the largest Latino organization in California, the Mexican American Political Association, voted unanimously to continue the boycott. Similarly, the gay communities in New York and San Francisco have held meetings to organize further actions against Coors. In San Francisco, activists held a demonstration to protest a Coors-sponsored bicycle race shortly after the agreement.

But as far as Coors spokesperson John Meadows is concerned, without the AFL-CIO the boycott is over. "I don't know who else is involved," said Meadows. "We read in the newspaper about a scattering of gay and les-bisexual organizations that have officially boycotted Coors beer."

Dominic Borzotto, president of the Local 26 of the Hotel and Restaurant Workers Union in Boston, summarized the situation. "It's a hard problem because the AFL-CIO and the media publicized [the end of the boycott] nationally," he explained. "For public consumption the boycott is dead. Every place I go where people had nothing to do with Coors, people are drinking it. People are congratulating each other about the victory."

HISTORY OF COORS

Joseph Coors, head of the company until 1985, has been dubbed the godfather of the New Right. He's part of Reagan's unofficial "Kitchen Cabinet" of millionaires. Washington insiders credit Coors with persuading President Reagan to appoint James Watt to the Interior Department, Edward Bennett to the Department of Education, and Patrick Buchanan as Director of Communications for the White House.

Joseph Coors has been a major supporter and funder of right-wing

"AM NOT TOO MAN AT ALL! THAT SHOWS A DISTINCT IMPROVEMENT IN HUMAN RIGHTS, MR SCHWITZ'

Coors Gets Everybody Pissed

of the Adolph Coors Company's employees were women, with virtually no women brewery production workers. That year, after an Equal Opportunity Commission filed suit against Coors, more women were hired, but reportedly, according to workers' affidavits, the company did its best to see that those women who were hired were fired or forced to quit.

An article in Workers' World claims that Coors "did not build a bath-room for women employees until 1973."

Coors' opposition to the Equal Rights Amendment allegedly included company contributions to Phyllis Schlafly's Eagle Forum, a vigorous foe of the ERA. Joseph Coors has also funded the most ardent congressional foes of women's rights: Senators Jeremiah Denton, Orin Hatch, and less Helm; all of whom have been accused of wanting to reduce women's legal status to that of serving their husbands and fathers.

Perhaps the most remarkable show of his support for the contras appeared last year, when news surfaced that Joseph Coors had personally financed of the purchase of a helicopter for them help transport troops and supplies.

Racism At the Top?

The Black community has been active in the boycott, especially since Joseph's brother and Coors CEO, William Coors, launched into a racist speech in 1984. Speaking before an audience of minority business students, Coors told Blacks that "one of the best things they (slave traders) did for you is to bring your ancestors over here in chains." Coors said that if American Blacks visited the African countries from which their ancestors were taken, they would be glad they were living in a free-enterprise system, "a land of opportunity."

Coors attributed the economic problems in Black-governed Africa to "a lack of intellectual capacity." Year earlier, William Coors had called a meeting of workers on company time to urge employees to work against the Civil Rights Act of 1964. The boycott has garnered the support of the Coalition of Black Trade Unionists among others.

A Woman's Place Is Not At Coors? As of 1975, only seven percent

Foundation to fight recycling bills in Colorado.

Another Coors protege, Anne Gorsuch, formerly headed the Environmental Protection Agency under the Reagan administration, with the objective of "freeing business from excessive regulation." In 1978, as a Colorado State Representative, Gorsuch's environmental voting record was rated a "13 out of a possible 100" by a statewide coalition of environmental groups.

In 1982 Coors Energy proposed a drilling operation in a Colorado wilderness study area that one conservationist said would cause "the most damage of any one proposal I've ever heard of." This sort of conduct on the part of Coors has earned the company a boycott endorsement from such environmental groups as Earth First!

Although Coors claims clean clear Rocky Mountain taste, environmentalists have protested that Coors has been cited as one of the major toxic polluters in Colorado. The company has also been charged with evading mentalism of the major toxic Occupational Safety and Health Administration (OSHA) inspectors following up workers' complaints of safety hazards. Three Coors workers were killed within an 18-month period.

Environmentalists contend that the Coors-supported Heritage Foundation has tried to subvert the Clean Air and Water Acts as well as attempt the boycott. The Coalition of Labor Union Women (CLUW) also adduced name to the effort.

Today Coors claims that women make up 23-25 percent of its workforce. The company also now has one woman vice-president and several women directors.

Coors and the Environment Students, threatened by Coors' vocal opposition to student loan programs, have also been active in the boycott. In conjunction with Frontlash, the AFL-CIO's youth wing, students have worked to defuse Coors' strategy of using the college campus as a breeding ground for lifelong Coors drinkers. Protests and petitions have forced the cancellation of Coors-sponsored campus activities.

Student organizers even put together honor rolls of the places agreeing to respect the boycott. Those that refused, risked being targeted for leafleting and, in some cases, sit-ins.

Appeasing Critics

Although the gay and Latino communities have been in the forefront of the Coors boycott, a few years ago Coors launched efforts aimed at patching up relations. While Coors had always claimed that the boycott was a failure, some saw a sign that the company was hurting when it began signing peace treaties with some critics.

COORS BY ANY OTHER NAME IS COORS BY STILL COORS!

In 1984, seven years after the boycott began, Coors tried to appease Latino advocacy groups that charged Coors with discrimination. The company agreed to pay large sums of money to the organizations if they would endorse Coors as the "Official Hispanic Beer." The more Coors beer sold in Latino neighborhoods, the more money the organizations would get. Similar deals were made with various minority publications and with civil rights groups in black communities.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) settled with Coors after the company offered to invest $225 million in the black community to recruit and employ more blacks, increase black ownership of Coors distributorships, provide capital assistance, utilization of black suppliers and vendors, invest in black-owned banks and insurance companies, and to reconstruct significant corporate resources as contributions, donations and support for the black community and its organizations. As with the Latino agreement, if Coors' sales rose within the Black community, Coors' financial commitments would increase accordingly.

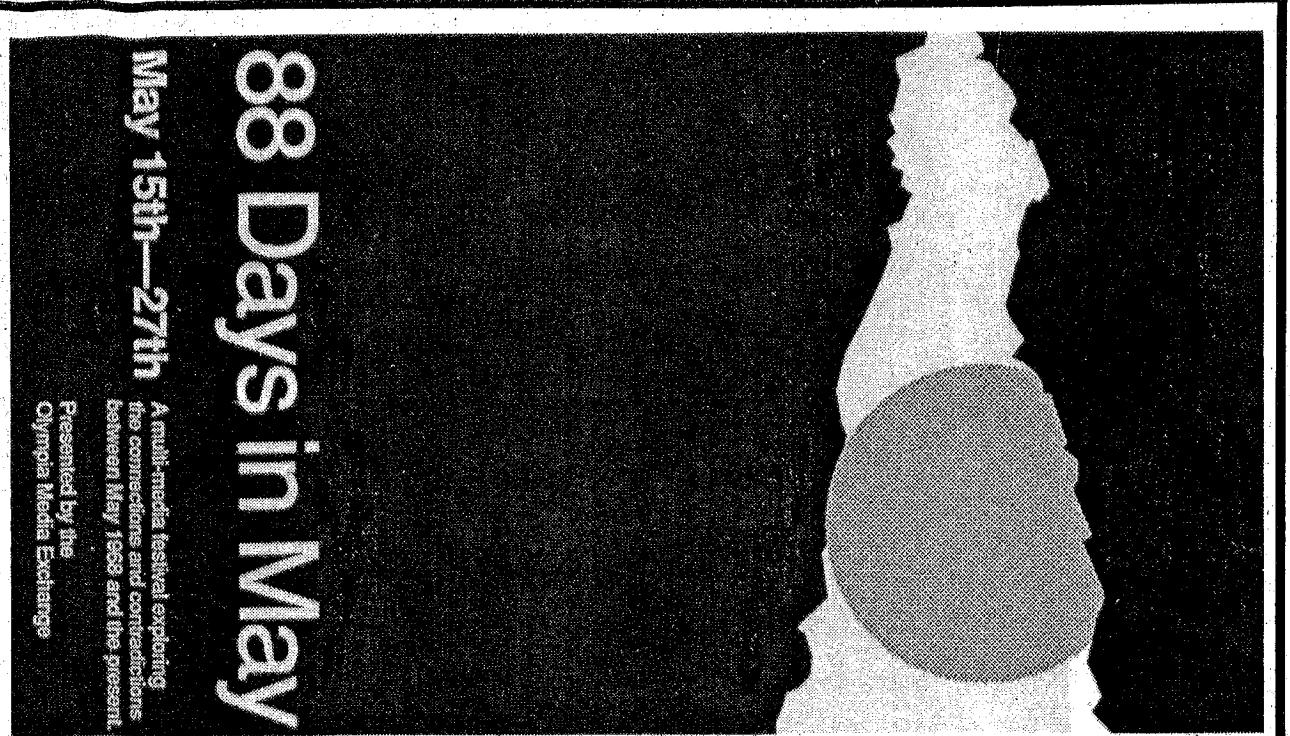

The NAACP had launched a boycott in 1984 following a comment by Coors' Chairman and Chief Executive Officer William Coors, that Blacks "lack the intellectual capacity to succeed, and it's taking them down the tubes."

When Peter Coors took over responsibility for company operations from his father Joseph in 1985, he reportedly undertook numerous efforts to change the company's image. Although Joseph Coors had funded the Moral Majority, Peter had the

continued on page 9

88 Days in May is a multi media festival exploring the connections and contradictions between 1968 and the present. It's running from May 15th through the 27th.

This festival will use films; screened at The Capital Theater in coordination with the Olympia Film Society; videos played at the Timberland Library, Smithfield Cafe, and at Evergreen. Music and oral history will be broadcast on KAOS(89.3 FM), and Evergreen Free Press will be printing articles, quotations, and visual representations to help develop the theme.

Stream of Consciousness Let's get it together and feel alright.

by Jonathan Daniel

The time has come for people to lay down our differences, our factionated opinions of this illusion we call reality, and come to terms with the fact that we are all in this mess together; and together is the only way we can find a way out. In the past we have been so adamant to name our differences and separate ourselves into cultural, class, religious, or social groups, yet we forgot that we are all on this planet together.

If the object of our studies and dreams is to save the world, than we must set aside the egotistical non-sense that one cause is greater than the next cause and make the complete realization that the world is crumbling below all of our feet.

Between the A.I.D.S. epidemic, which is affecting everyone living on this planet (along with the planet herself), whether or not we choose to accept it; to the issues of apartheid in South Africa, Israel, and America; to the situations of worldwide pollution, nuclear toxicity; and so on down the line; there is no way out! Ah, but there is, should we choose to make the conscientious choice, and then spread the news everywhere.

I have said before that the conventional means of revolution are obsolete; even if we replace the military-industrial power elite with good ole' fashioned biological sustainability, we are still replacing one power with another! Ah, but there is, should we choose to

88 Days in May

A multi-media festival exploring the connections and contradictions between May 1968 and the present.

May 15th—27th

Presented by the Olympia Media Exchange

The Films: the Olympia Media Exchange, in conjunction with the Olympia Film Society, is presenting two double features.

On Sunday and Monday (May 15th & 16th)

In the Year of the Pig will run with Sammy and Rosie Get Laid. In the second week of the festival Medium Cool is billed with Are We Winning Mommy?

These films will be shown on Sunday and Monday, the 22nd & 23rd.

BARGAIN ALERT...SPECIAL PRICES FOR THE DOUBLE FEATURES ARE $4.00

Other Screenings: On Wednesday, May 18th, at 7:00 P.M. at the Timberland Library an evening of French films will examine the events of May 1968. There will be a free screening of La Chinoise, by Godard (made in 1967), a speaker will accompany this screening.

Continued from page 8

thropic endeavors, Coors has reportedly instituted some major changes within the company. Once heavily criticized for discrimination against women, Blacks, and Latinos, today Coors sees itself as a model for minority hiring and boasts of the many awards it has received from minority organizations. Approximately 17 percent of Coors workers are minority, claimed Coors spokesperson Meadows, who pointed out that the Denver area where the plant is located is only 12.9 percent minority. Blacks and Hispanics are present "at every level" of the company, he added.

In addition to minority hiring, Coors says it now also has an exem-

Coors has also been honored by Operation SER, affiliated with the Latino group GI Forum.

Boycott Seriously Impacts Sales

Continued from page 8

play record of supporting minority-owned businesses. Coors claims the "largest per capita minority procurement" of any comparable business, with its minority buying being twice the amount of Anheuser-Busch and Miller, and three times that of Chrysler. Coors has received the Urban League's National Equal Employment Opportunity Award and last year was given the National Minorities Supplier Award.

Since the Brewery Workers announced the boycott in 1977, beer sales in Coors' own home base in Colorado slid from 47% of the market to 22% over the next seven years. In California, its biggest market, Coors' sales dropped from 44% before the boycott to less than 14% last year.

According to labor sources, Coor's sales overall fell by approximately 50% during the boycott. Sales of Coors fell in all the Western states and made only small gains in the East. The company maintained its overall volume of sales by expanding its market. When the boycott began, Coors sold in only 14 states. It now sells in 48.

Ten years ago, the Coors brew-masters were reportedly selling 14 million barrels a year with an uncommonly low advertising budget of $7 million a year. But just prior to the boycott settlement with the AFL-CIO,

Coors' sales, but activists believe the boycott deserves a good share of the credit for the company's difficulties.

Since the Brewery Workers announced the boycott in 1977, beer sales in Coors' own home base in Colorado slid from 47% of the market to 22% over the next seven years. In California, its biggest market, Coors'

For further info. on the 88 Days in May, or O.M.E. future plans for international media exchanges, call Clive Pepe, project coordinator, at 754-6670.

Continued from page 8

Although boycott activists saw such policy changes by Coors as evidence the boycott was working, only when the agreement was announced did Coors finally admit that the boycott had been so effective.

It remains difficult to gauge how much the boycott actually affected Coors' sales, but activists believe the boycott deserves a good share of the credit for the company's difficulties.

The company maintained its overall volume of sales by expanding its market. When the boycott began, Coors sold in only 14 states. It now sells in 48.

Ten years ago, the Coors brew-

masters were reportedly selling 14

million barrels a year with an uncom-

monly low advertising budget of $7 million a year. But just prior to the

boycott settlement with the AFL-CIO,

Coors' sales, but activists believe the boycott deserves a good share of the credit for the company's difficulties.

Since the Brewery Workers announced the boycott in 1977, beer sales in Coors' own home base in Colorado slid from 47% of the market to 22% over the next seven years. In California, its biggest market, Coors'

generally, in the face of a vacuum of power blossoms chaos, but this is usually of a violent nature, and we really don't need any more violence on this planet.

The answer is, I'm sure you're all waiting to leap on me change from within each of us, gain momentum and then lock our combined causes together to build a unified body of humanity; all together on this whirling ball of magma and water harmoniously and equally.

I know, you're all saying that this dude is a flower child who's eaten too much acid. Well, you're probably right, there really isn't an easy answer to these complex problems, but I know unity is key. Let us look at our own cloistered reality for a second or two. There has been much dispute on the Evergreen campus this quarter. We have seen major conflict arise between the various Americans and the folks sponsoring the A.I.D.S. symposium. Many arguments over the viability of the Free Press and the political hell raising of F.U.C.K.E.M.; there have been countless run-ins with the administration over governance and a student collective. We the students, as different as we are, can't decide on any one thing, while the administration is busy planning the next few years strategies for dealing with the growing numbers of us.

Why can't we come to a consensus? Because we are too busy sighting our differences and the singular importance of our individual needs and causes. If we could set aside these very important differences for the duration of an organizational meeting of minds;

so next time you have a thought or plan to create some kind of viable change, write me (care of Stream of Consciousness), or submit your own article and we'll do our best to print it.

Continued from page 8

Coors' sales overall fell by approximately 50% during the boycott. Sales of Coors fell in all the Western states and made only small gains in the East. The company maintained its overall volume of sales by expanding its market. When the boycott began, Coors sold in only 14 states. It now sells in 48.

Ten years ago, the Coors brew-

masters were reportedly selling 14

million barrels a year with an uncom-

monly low advertising budget of $7

million a year. But just prior to the

boycott settlement with the AFL-CIO,

Coors' sales, but activists believe the

boycott deserves a good share of the credit for the company's difficulties.

Since the Brewery Workers announced the boycott in 1977, beer sales in Coors' own home base in Colorado slid from 47% of the market to 22% over the next seven years. In California, its biggest market, Coors'

generally, in the face of a vacuum of power blossoms chaos, but this is usually of a violent nature, and we really don't need any more violence on this planet.

The answer is, I'm sure you're all waiting to leap on me change from within each of us, gain momentum and then lock our combined causes together to build a unified body of humanity; all together on this whirling ball of magma and water harmoniously and equally.

I know, you're all saying that this dude is a flower child who's eaten too much acid. Well, you're probably right, there really isn't an easy answer to these complex problems, but I know unity is key. Let us look at our own cloistered reality for a second or two. There has been much dispute on the Evergreen campus this quarter. We have seen major conflict arise between the various Americans and the folks sponsoring the A.I.D.S. symposium. Many arguments over the viability of the Free Press and the political hell raising of F.U.C.K.E.M.; there have been countless run-ins with the administration over governance and a student collective. We the students, as different as we are, can't decide on any one thing, while the administration is busy planning the next few years strategies for dealing with the growing numbers of us.

Why can't we come to a consensus? Because we are too busy sighting our differences and the singular importance of our individual needs and causes. If we could set aside these very important differences for the duration of an organizational meeting of minds;

so next time you have a thought or plan to create some kind of viable change, write me (care of Stream of Consciousness), or submit your own article and we'll do our best to print it.

Continued from page 8

Coors' sales overall fell by approximately 50% during the boycott. Sales of Coors fell in all the Western states and made only small gains in the East. The company maintained its overall volume of sales by expanding its market. When the boycott began, Coors sold in only 14 states. It now sells in 48.

Ten years ago, the Coors brew-

masters were reportedly selling 14

million barrels a year with an uncom-

monly low advertising budget of $7

million a year. But just prior to the

boycott settlement with the AFL-CIO,

Coors' sales, but activists believe the

boycott deserves a good share of the credit for the company's difficulties.

Since the Brewery Workers announced the boycott in 1977, beer sales in Coors' own home base in Colorado slid from 47% of the market to 22% over the next seven years. In California, its biggest market, Coors'

generally, in the face of a vacuum of power blossoms chaos, but this is usually of a violent nature, and we really don't need any more violence on this planet.

The answer is, I'm sure you're all waiting to leap on me change from within each of us, gain momentum and then lock our combined causes together to build a unified body of humanity; all together on this whirling ball of magma and water harmoniously and equally.

I know, you're all saying that this dude is a flower child who's eaten too much acid. Well, you're probably right, there really isn't an easy answer to these complex problems, but I know unity is key. Let us look at our own cloistered reality for a second or two. There has been much dispute on the Evergreen campus this quarter. We have seen major conflict arise between the various Americans and the folks sponsoring the A.I.D.S. symposium. Many arguments over the viability of the Free Press and the political hell raising of F.U.C.K.E.M.; there have been countless run-ins with the administration over governance and a student collective. We the students, as different as we are, can't decide on any one thing, while the administration is busy planning the next few years strategies for dealing with the growing numbers of us.

Why can't we come to a consensus? Because we are too busy sighting our differences and the singular importance of our individual needs and causes. If we could set aside these very important differences for the duration of an organizational meeting of minds;

so next time you have a thought or plan to create some kind of viable change, write me (care of Stream of Consciousness), or submit your own article and we'll do our best to print it.

Continued from page 8

Coors' sales overall fell by approximately 50% during the boycott. Sales of Coors fell in all the Western states and made only small gains in the East. The company maintained its overall volume of sales by expanding its market. When the boycott began, Coors sold in only 14 states. It now sells in 48.

Ten years ago, the Coors brew-

masters were reportedly selling 14

million barrels a year with an uncom-

monly low advertising budget of $7

million a year. But just prior to the

boycott settlement with the AFL-CIO,

Coors' sales, but activists believe the

boycott deserves a good share of the credit for the company's difficulties.

Since the Brewery Workers announced the boycott in 1977, beer sales in Coors' own home base in Colorado slid from 47% of the market to 22% over the next seven years. In California, its biggest market, Coors'

generally, in the face of a vacuum of power blossoms chaos, but this is usually of a violent nature, and we really don't need any more violence on this planet.

The answer is, I'm sure you're all waiting to leap on me change from within each of us, gain momentum and then lock our combined causes together to build a unified body of humanity; all together on this whirling ball of magma and water harmoniously and equally.

I know, you're all saying that this dude is a flower child who's eaten too much acid. Well, you're probably right, there really isn't an easy answer to these complex problems, but I know unity is key. Let us look at our own cloistered reality for a second or two. There has been much dispute on the Evergreen campus this quarter. We have seen major conflict arise between the various Americans and the folks sponsoring the A.I.D.S. symposium. Many arguments over the viability of the Free Press and the political hell raising of F.U.C.K.E.M.; there have been countless run-ins with the administration over governance and a student collective. We the students, as different as we are, can't decide on any one thing, while the administration is busy planning the next few years strategies for dealing with the growing numbers of us.

Why can't we come to a consensus? Because we are too busy sighting our differences and the singular importance of our individual needs and causes. If we could set aside these very important differences for the duration of an organizational meeting of minds;

so next time you have a thought or plan to create some kind of viable change, write me (care of Stream of Consciousness), or submit your own article and we'll do our best to print it.

Continued from page 8

Coors' sales overall fell by approximately 50% during the boycott. Sales of Coors fell in all the Western states and made only small gains in the East. The company maintained its overall volume of sales by expanding its market. When the boycott began, Coors sold in only 14 states. It now sells in 48.

Ten years ago, the Coors brew-

masters were reportedly selling 14

million barrels a year with an uncom-

monly low advertising budget of $7

million a year. But just prior to the

UNDERSEARAL

By David

Another treat for Greeners will be the welcome addition of two larger than life-sized murals, being painted for permanent display in the Computer Center.

Resident TESC artist, Jennifer Shepard, proposed the work to interested and helpful faculty and administrators, Judy Baard and Pete Piatrasi. The project was approved and is now underway. The works in progress can be observed in process, in the clear daylight shining from the large windows in the corner of the Computer Center.

The chosen theme presents a colorful, inviting marine environment, complete with luminous tropical plants and multi-colored fish.

"The plants will appear first, followed by select fish and other creatures. I felt obligated to create scenes well removed from computer discs, machines, or designs therein," said Jennifer.

Completion date has been set for one week prior to Graduation '88. One mural will be mounted for viewing in the Microlab, while the fish are in the many Computer Cr. tanks splay and wag their tails with artistic approach competent, and

Midwives Lower Infant Mortality

By Spring-Rain

After receiving excellent prenatal care from my licensed midwife, I realized that being a midwife means love and dedication to the mother's entire childbearing year.

I also have a basic understanding of the diversity of knowledge and expertise a midwife must possess in order to fulfill the needs of parents and the newborn. My calling to be a midwife comes from my humanitarian urge to fulfill the need for training women midwives to assist pregnant and their families during this extremely important time.

There is a great need in our state for midwives to work with "high-risk" women, by working with nutritional needs, social support, and specialized labor and delivery skills. Now more than ever, obstetricians are refusing to care for low-income women, who are labeled "high-risk." Statistics show that these women are getting little or no prenatal care.

Washington State has one of the nation's highest rates of post-neonatal mortality, possibly due to the lack of prenatal care and social support.

According to research done by the World Health Organization, midwives can lower the alarmingly high infant mortality rate by providing their clients with an intimate and supportive relationship. Midwives provide individual care for each pregnant woman's circumstance.

In countries such as Finland, Iceland, Japan, Sweden, Denmark, Netherlands, Norway, and Switzerland, infant mortality rates are significantly lower than in the United States.

Midwives are the primary birth attendants in these countries.

The Surgeon General has recognized there is a problem in this country and that prenatal care is a significant part of the answer.

According to Marion Wright Edelman, President of Children's Defense Fund, "at the current rate of progress, the nation and the state will fail to meet nearly all of the Surgeon General's 1990 Objective for reducing infant mortality, the number of low-birthweight births, and the number of women who receive late or no prenatal care.

Babies whose mothers receive no prenatal care are three times more likely to suffer low birthweights, with commensurately greater risks of birth defects and death. As a result of the nation's slow progress in providing access to early prenatal care and in reducing the incidence of low birthweight, more than 300,000 excess low birthweight births will occur between 1987 and 1990.

These babies will cost the nation more than $82 billion during this period just for the medical care required during the first years of life."

Womb rent is very expensive.

For example, if a premature infant is born in the twenty-sixth week of development, hospital cost is $1,000. In the twenty-eighth week, cost will run $80,000. In the thirty-fifth week, cost will exceed $10,000. Midwives' work will improve at-risk women's diets and habits before the crisis happens.

Midwifery care is cost effective and will hopefully be acknowledged as a legitimate profession that statistically lowers infant mortality rates.

When I look around me, many things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Midwifery, in my mind, entails good counseling ability with important childbirth skills and experience.

When I look around me, many

things are linked to a healthy and happy childbirth. This inspires me to be politically active in the following areas: consumer rights, labor-support, childbirth education and labor consulting. Mid

